

The Anchorage

The Pembrokeshire Village of Dale

Dale is a very small Pembrokeshire village of less than 100 houses. It has an attractive seafront and in Tudor times this was a smugglers' village.

It may be small, but it has the important things, like an excellent bayside pub, The Griffin, which serves good food and drink, and a lovely, safe little harbour, which provides the base for diving or fishing trips, island excursions, expert sailing / windsurfing / surfing and canoeing tuition for all the family.

Dale Sailing Club is very active all summer, and offers short term membership for dinghy, yachting and windsurfing.

The beach at Dale is shingle, with some sand at low tide. The Pembrokeshire Coastal Path runs right through the village and there is a little café there and a post office/general stores for basic provisions.

Tesco.com will deliver the 'big weekly shop' direct to the door if you are too busy on the beach to drive the 20 minutes or so to the big stores in Haverfordwest!

Activities For Everyone in Pembrokeshire

The delightful Welsh village of Dale, Pembrokeshire in West Wales is the centre for sailing and water sport activities!

Dale has become well known as one of the classic windsurfing venues due to a wide range of sailing conditions along a small stretch of coastline.

You will find a wide variety of water sports to enjoy such as:

- SCUBA diving
- wind surfing
- sailing
- power boating
- kayaking
- canoeing

- swimming
- boating

In addition, this Pembrokeshire village in the Dale Peninsula is the perfect Welsh holiday location for:

- bird watching
- golfing
- lounging on unspoilt beaches
- coastal walks
- fishing
- island excursions

Whether you are a rambler, a sailor, or just someone who enjoys being in peaceful Welsh village, Dale has something to offer you.

Musslewick Beach

www.holidaycottagepems.co.uk

This PDF is printer-friendly.